

Norfolk and Waveney Learning Disability Mortality Review Annual Report 2021-22

What is the Learning Disability Mortality Review (LeDeR) Annual Report?

It is a document that looks into why people with a learning disability have died in Norfolk and Waveney

It helps us to understand what we can do to help give people with a learning disability longer and healthier lives in the future

This report has been written by the Norfolk and Waveney Learning Disability Mortality Steering Group

This group is co-chaired by Sarah Jane Ward, Associate Director of Quality in Care NHS Norfolk and Waveney Clinical Commissioning Group, and Andrew Borrett, an Expert by Lived Experience

The group includes people with learning disabilities and autism

How do we look into the reasons that someone with a learning disability has died?

The Learning Disabilities Mortality Review (LeDeR) programme is led by NHS England

It helps local areas to review the deaths of people with learning disabilities aged over 4 years of age.

Local reviews of deaths look into what could have been done differently to avoid the person dying and to make a plan to help stop people with learning disabilities dying younger

In Norfolk and Waveney we have worked hard this year to carry out more reviews

Anyone can tell the LeDeR team at Norfolk and Waveney about someone with a learning disability who has died

This can be done using an online form:

<https://leder.nhs.uk/report>

Although this has been another difficult year for everyone, we have continued to improve how we communicate with people with learning disabilities, their carers, and professionals

What does our report tell us this year?

We received 63 notifications of people with learning disabilities who had died

This included three (3) that were for children and young people

We are disappointed to see the average age when a person with a learning disability dies in Norfolk and Waveney decrease to 59 years old

This is a lot younger than for people who do not have learning disabilities

Most people died in hospital

However more people died at home or in their place of residence this year

The most common cause of death was a respiratory condition called pneumonia

Most people received satisfactory care but there were cases where the care had not been as good as it should have

We need make sure all people with learning disabilities, their carers and professionals know how to make reasonable adjustments so everyone can get the care they need

We need to help more people have their annual health check

We need to help more people have their flu and COVID-19 vaccinations

We need to make sure that Mental Capacity Act Assessments are carried out when needed

We need to help more people attend cancer screening appointments

We need to make sure that carers and professionals are looking out for signs that someone is starting to be unwell

How have we helped people with learning disabilities during the Covid-19 pandemic?

Accessible clinics were set up across Norfolk and Waveney to help people with learning disabilities and autism to get their vaccination

We have helped people with learning disabilities to travel more freely

We have provided advice and support

We held live video events which helped us find out more about what people with learning disabilities need

What are we going to do next?

We will finish all reviews that are still waiting to be done

We will work in partnership with people who have a learning disability and their families and carers

We will continue our Learning into Action work and we will check that what we are doing is working well

We will do more to support people from ethnic minorities

We will do more to improve life expectancy of people with learning disabilities

The Learning Disability Mortality Review (LeDeR) Programme
Annual Report for April 2021 to March 2022 is available on our website:

<https://www.norfolkandwaveneyccg.nhs.uk/health-services/learning-disbability>